Correlation of Map Units

Map Symbols

References

Geological Map of the Weston Canyon 7.5' Quadrangle, Franklin and Oneida Counties, Southeastern Idaho

Landslide or slump head scarp dotted where concealed.

Geologic Cross Section

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only

The map unit is a deposit of the Upper Washington Canyon Member of the Ogdensburg Formation. The unit contains abundant fragments of clastic units in the Washington Canyon Member and the washing of these clasts form a thin layer of fine gravel. The map unit is not exposed and is only